Geleitwort

Der vorgelegten Veröffentlichung "Avery-Brundage-Collection" messe ich nicht nur sportwissenschaftliche Bedeutung zu. Sie ist - darüber hinaus - sicherlich auch von allgemeinem Interesse, denn zweifellos war Avery Brundage eine Persönlichkeit der Zeitgeschichte.

Sein Leben hatte viele Dimensionen. Er war ein großer Unternehmer und Baumeister, Freund der schönen Künste und Förderer der Wissenschaften. Sein Wort galt auch in der politischen Welt. Aber in erster Linie war er eben doch ein Sportsmann und durch zwei Jahrzehnte der unbestrittene Führer der olympischen Bewegung.

Es ist verdienstvoll, daß das Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft, Köln, in sorgfältiger Arbeit bisher weitgehend unbekannte Spuren Avery Brundages verfolgt und sie mit diesem Band der interessierten Öffentlichkeit zugängig gemacht hat. Manches Originelle, gar Eigensinnige wird zutage kommen. Aber Avery Brundage wußte, daß Olympische Spiele, von den guten Geistern verlassen, die armseligste Sache der Welt sein können. Deswegen setzte er sein Engagement und seine ganze geistige Substanz für die Auseinandersetzung mit allen Erscheinungsformen des Sportes ein. Dieser wird zweifellos auch von dem, was nachgelassen ist, profitieren können.

Preface

I attribute to the "Avery Brundage Collection" presented here as a publication a significance not only in the area of sport. It is - beyond that - certainly of general interest as well, for Avery Brundage was without doubt an historical personality of our times.

His life had many dimensions. He was a great entrepreneur and master-builder, friend of the fine arts and patron of learning. His word was also heeded in the political world. But above all he was a sportsman and for two decades the undisputed leader of the Olympic movement.

It is worthy of merit that the Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft in Cologne has, in painstaking labor, traced hitherto largely unknown footsteps of Avery Brundage and made them available in this volume to the interested public. Many original, indeed eccentric facts will come to light. But Avery Brundage knew that Olympic Games deserted by good spirits could be the poorest thing in the world. And for that reason he employed his commitment and his entire intellectual resources in coming to terms with all aspects of sports. The latter will doubtless be able to profit from all he has bequeathed.

VORWORT

"Deutschland hat grosse Verdienste um die Verbreitung der Olympischen Idee", äusserte Avery Brundage anlässlich seines Besuches im Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft im Sommer 1974. Deswegen sei er auch bereit, seine umfangreiche Materialsammlung dem Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft zu überlassen.

Der Umfang des Nachlasses wurde von ihm auf ca. 60 Kisten geschätzt, in denen er alles gesammelt hat, seitdem er 1912 zum ersten Mal als Aktiver bei den Olympischen Spielen in Stockholm teilnahm. Inzwischen hat die Universität von Illinois in Urbana (USA) - Brundage's Alma Mater - das Archiv übernommen und festgestellt, dass es nicht ca. 60 Kisten, sondern 325 wohlgeordnete Archiv-Boxen sind, in denen die gesamte Sammlung übersichtlich und leicht zugänglich in den Archivräumen der Universität aufbewahrt wird. Das Bundesinstitut hat grosses Verständnis für die Entscheidung des ehemaligen IOC-Präsidenten, seinen Nachlass an seine Universität überstellt zu haben.

Avery Brundage hat aber dem Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft als einzigem ausländischen Institut die Genehmigung erteilt, das gesamte Material auf Mikrofilm aufzunehmen. Diese Arbeiten werden zur Zeit in Illinois durchgeführt, so dass in etwa einem halben Jahr ca. 400.00 Seiten sporthistorisch wertvolles Material auf Mikrofilm dem Institut in Köln zur Verfügung stehen.

Die vorliegende, von Maynard J. Brichford erstellte Übersicht der Brundage-Sammlung gibt einen eindrucksvollen Einblick in das demnächst dem Bundesinstitut zur Verfügung stehende Material und dürfte allen an Sport- und Zeitgeschichte Interessierten bereits in dieser Form von grossem Wert sein.

FORWARD

"Germany deserves great appreciation for the diffusion of the Olympic idea", asserted Avery Brundage on the occasion of his visit to the Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft (Federal Institute of Sport Science) in the summer of 1974. Therefore he provided for the Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft to have access to his extensive collection of materials.

The volume of the papers from him was estimated to be about 60 transfer cases, in which he gathered everything since he took part for the first time in the activities of the 1912 Olympic Games in Stockholm. Meanwhile the University of Illinois in Urbana (USA) - Brundage's Alma Mater - acquired the archives and found that there were not about 60 transfer cases, but 325 well arranged archives boxes, in which the entire clearly arranged and easily accessible collection will be kept in the University Archives. The Bundesinstitut greatly appreciates the decision of the late President of the International Olympic Committee to transfer his collection to his former university.

However, Avery Brundage granted his permission to the Bundesinstitut für Sportwissenschaft as the only foreign institute to record all of the material on microfilm. This work will be accomplished in time in Illinois; in about a half year about 400,000 pages of valuable sports history material will be on microfilm at the disposal of the institute in Köln.

The submitted survey of the Brundage Collection drawn up by Maynard J. Brichford gives a complete, concise view of the material soon to be at the disposal of the Bundesinstitut and, prepared in this form, likely to be of great value for those interested in contemporary history and the history of sport.

On December 20, 1974, the University Archives, a division of the library, received a listing of the contents of boxes in Mr. Brundage's offices at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago prepared by Mme. Monique Berlioux of the International Olympic Committee.

On February 5, 1975, Mr. Maynard Brichford and Mr. Charles Elston transferred the 167 boxes listed by Mme. Berlioux from Chicago to the University Archives in Urbana. Index

This index is an alphabetical dictionary listing of the major subjects and names found in the 324 boxes and 122 scrapbooks in the Avery Brundage Collection in the University Archives. Secondary listings are used sparingly under the Amateur Athletic Union, the International Olympic Committee and the United States Olympic Committee. The summer Olympiads, Winter Games and continuing problems are listed under Olympic Games. Many references to common subjects like amateurism, Avery Brundage, the Olympic movement and the United States are omitted as they occur in nearly every box. References are to box numbers, scrapbook numbers (with an S prefix) or the oversize file (OF). An explanation of the Scrapbooks is found on page 18o of the finding aid.

Diese „Schriftenreihe des Bundesinstituts für Sportwissenschaft“ will in der Vielfalt der Fragestellung und des methodischen Zugangs die Einheit des Gegenstandes „Sport“ ermöglichen. Sie soll damit ihren Beitrag zur Konstitution einer eigenständigen Sportwissenschaft leisten.

Inhaltlich werden einerseits Themen, die aus der Forschungsförderung des Bundesinstituts hervorgegangen sind, im Vordergrund stehen; andererseits soll die Reihe ein Forum sein für Berichte über solche Tagungen, Symposien und Expertengespräche, die vom Bundesinstitut entweder organisiert oder zumindest gefördert werden und aktuellen sportwissenschaftlichen Problemkomplexen dienen. Dieser Zielsetzung entspricht auch die Entscheidung, der international oftmals gleichen sportwissenschaftlichen Problemlage vereinzelt durch mehrsprachige Veröffentlichungen gerecht zu werden.

Alle sportwissenschaftliche Theoriebildung wird aber nicht nur die Forderung nach Konsistenz ihrer theoretischen Konstrukte beachten, sondern ebenso ihren Bezug zur Sportpraxis ausweisen müssen. Letztlich dient daher die Schriftenreihe auch dazu, den Zusammenhang von Theorie und Praxis auf dem Gebiet des Sports immer wieder bewußt zu machen.
